

Game of Generals

About this game:

This game is an older version of chess with two main differences:

- 1) Pieces can come back to life.
- 2) Some pieces have upgrade option!

Pieces:

Pawn: Only moves forward (one step at a time).

Lance: Moves forward.

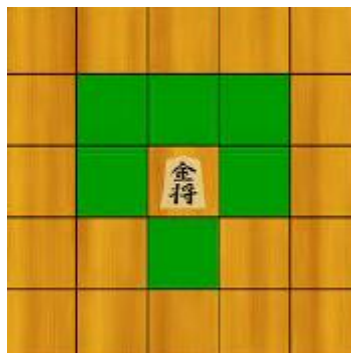

King: Moves one step at any desired direction.

Bishop: Moves diagonally (crosswise) as much as desired, but only in the front direction.

Silver General:

Golden General:

Rules:

- 1) Black moves first.
- 2) You can't jump over pieces, but you can hit rival's piece.
- 3) How to win: The first to hit rival's king wins (King can be hit by the rival's king).
- 4) About upgrade option: it activates by moving to the two last rows of the table.

Pawn: Moves like Golden General.

Lance: It becomes Bishop but also can move in any desired direction.

Bishop: It either moves diagonally as much as desired or moves one step vertically.

Silver General: It can move two steps (at most) at any desired direction.

- 5) When a piece is hit, it will be added to the rival's pieces (its color changes). It can also be added to the table at the next round.
- 6) If the hit piece was upgraded, it will be added to the new set without any further power (it will move normally).
- 7) By putting the new hit piece at the last two rows, it won't be upgraded.
